Manton Found Guilty

Former Federal Judge Convicted Of Conspiracy To Obstruct Justice

NEW YORK, June 3.—(AP)—Former Federal Circuit Court Judge Martin T. Manton was convicted by a federal court jury tonight of conspiracy to obstruct justice and to deprive the United States of his impartial services.

He faces a maximum penalty of two years in prison and a $10,000 fine.

George M. Spector, former confidential agent for the late promoter Archie M. Andrews, was convicted of the same charge.

Three other original co-defendants pleaded guilty at the start of the trial.

Three Hours Deliberation

The jury, ten men and two women, received the case late today after a trial of 11 days and returned their verdict about four hours later, after taking an hour out for dinner.

Benjamin Golder, of Manton's counsel, asked that bail be continued for Manton pending the filing of a motion for a new trial or notification of intention to take an appeal to a higher court.

Manton's bail is $10,000. His co-defendant Spector is held in $17,000 bail.

The continuance of bail was granted and a hearing on a motion for a new trial was set for June 20.

Federal Judge W. Calvin Chesnut of Maryland, who presided at the trial, remarked significantly that if the motion were denied, sentencing would follow immediately.

Manton's Face Red

Manton's face was red as the jury's decision was announced. His eyes, which seemed dimmed, blinked rapidly several times and he leaned forward pressing two fingers against a fleshy cheek.

His co-defendant, Spector, remained impassive.

In summing up the government's case at Manton's trial on charges of conspiracy to deprive the government of his fair services by accepting bribes, John T. Cahill, 35, a recent appointee of President Roosevelt, charged "one of the most monstrous plots to buy and sell justice was born and hatched within the four walls of this very courthouse."

The case went to the jury following a 90-minute charge by Judge Chesnut who declared the accusation against Manton was "unprecedented in the history of 150 years of the federal judiciary."

Smith Claims He Desires Recall Vote

Would Test Public Confidence In His Work, Mayor Says

KANSAS CITY, June 3—(AP)—Demands for a recall election today brought an assertion from Mayor Bryce B. Smith that he would welcome such an election as a test of public confidence in the present administration's efforts to clean up the city.

James A. Reed, former United States senator, who himself has received support of the Kansas City Democratic machine in past campaigns, came out for the immediate recall of Mayor Smith and City Manager Eugene Zachman at a meeting of the Forward Kansas City committee last night.

Despite a sharp difference of opinion as to the advisability of a recall election at this time, the committee voted to name a subcommittee to coordinate groups demanding a recall.

Counsel Against Recall

Some civic leaders have counseled against a recall movement now on the ground that no effective opposition organization exists to offset the strong, although somewhat battered, Democratic organization.

The Democrats surely could win a recall election now, these leaders contend, despite the fact Boss Tom Pendergast is serving a prison sentence for income tax evasion and several of his lieutenants are in prison for vote frauds in the 1936 general election here.

Mayor Smith said he had not consulted with the eight city councilmen, seven of whom are Democrats and one a Republican.

"I would like to know myself whether I have the confidence of the people in my effort to clean up the city and to bring its government inside the charter." the mayor said.

Saturday Weather Cooler Than Usual

98 Dead On British Sub Is Record

Largest Number Ever To Perish In Underseas Disaster

(by The Associated Press)

BIRKENHEAD, England, June 3—Hope vanished tonight for 98 men at the bottom of the Irish Sea in the sunken British submarine Thetis—the greatest number ever to perish in an underseas disaster.

The Admiralty gave the men up for dead nearly 15 hours after the air supply was calculated to have been exhausted behind the Thetis' silent, thick steel walls. Admiralty officials acknowledged that slow seepage of water into the submarine's batteries probably had formed chlorine gas and that the fumes had suffocated the men.

A British medical authority expert said that if they died from gas poisoning, the men probably met a painless and easy death.

Would Suffocate Quickly

"Chlorine gas fumes, in a confined space, like the interior of a submerged submarine, would cause early asphyxiation, immediately preceded by loss of consciousness," said the authority, who is an official of a leading medical association.

Salvage vessels attempting to raise the hull of the Thetis succeeded in placing hawsers under her, it was disclosed tonight. Experts said, however, that it would be impossible to raise her before next Tuesday.

"Then we will make for shallow water, probably on Anglesey coast, (eight miles away)," an official of the Thetis' builders said.

At 1:40 a. m. (6:40 p. m., C. S. T., Friday night) 36 hours—the deadline for the Thetis' sealed-up air—had passed since the new $1,500,000 submarine dived into Liverpool Bay in a test on a trial run for acceptance by the British Navy.

Final Faint Answers

For six hours after that divers tapped urgently at her sides for a signal that life still flickered within. They got what they believed might have been their final, faint answer at 2 a. m. today (7 p. m., C. S. T., Friday night) although some thought they might have heard only loose gear rattling against the swaying sides of the hulk.

The Thetis, her nose buried in 65 feet of mud in wreck-littered Liverpool Bay, carried 102 men below with her in her dive. Four men escaped with Davis breathing "lungs." three others were said to have died in vain attempts.

The Thetis had had several minor accidents in previous trials but there was still no official explanation of why she suddenly plunged into the mud.

Auto Strike Is Unbroken

DETROIT, June 3.—(AP)—Union and management, each charging the other with injecting "new issues" into the dispute, failed today to break a strike deadlock that has kept more than 70,000 automobile workers idle for two weeks.

Settlement negotiations arranged by federal councilator James F. Dewey were adjourned until Monday.

Seven plants of the Briggs Manufacturing Co., body makers, were closed by the strike, throwing 15,000 men out of work. Lack of bodies caused shutdowns of Chrysler Corp. and Lincoln units employing more than 55,000 men.

—An Editorial—

The Kansas City Police Bill

Despite use of the time-worn political device of procrastination, public enthusiasm for the police control bill affecting Kansas City is growing rather than diminishing.

There has been much scheming by opponents of the measure which has been delayed for action in the Missouri Senate until sometime this week. Passage of the bill without inclusion of the emergency clause is one device to pull its teeth, thereby making it ineffective by subjecting it to a referendum a year and a half away.

Pendergast organization stalwarts are bitterly opposed to the police bill which makes it a matter of deep concern not only to Kansas City, but also out-state. Organization spokesmen declare that the Kansas City issue is a domestic one and that it is not the business of Pettis Countians, or anyone else to champion disciplinary measures. This argument is weakened, in fact nullified, by public awareness of the tentacle-like subversive influences emanating from the Kansas City control area into counties such as Pettis. There are those who are sincere and have served the organization well, faithfully and honestly. But the past few weeks have revealed a rottenness at the core that no reasonable person can expect has not spread elsewhere.

An attempt is being made to clean house in Kansas City. It is a noble gesture deserving of sympathetic support. But the organization leadership is short-sighted, stubborn and defiant; totally unaware or unconcerned of the public's disgust. It looks as though the machine is out of control in the hands of irrational drivers, each wanting to grab the wheel. At such a time, in the interest of public welfare and safety, there is needed police restraint that owes no debt to the drivers who laugh at and ignore law enforcement.

When the police bill comes up in the Senate it is expected that another maneuver of opponents will be to bind it up with amendments or changes. This seems to be a lot of horse-play over a measure which the folk back home want passed. If after a week-end at home the Missouri Senators haven't sensed the temper of their constituents, then their political sagacity is open to question and they should prepare for reprisals from the electors when next they seek the public favor.

Try To Keep Refugee Jews From Germany

Dominican Republic Offers Emigrants Haven—For $500

HAVANA, June 3—(AP)—Efforts were made today to keep in the new world 907 refugee German Jews who had been forbidden to land in Havana and were being returned to Hamburg on the German liner St. Louis.

The liner, which had left Hamburg with the refugees May 15, sailed back for Hamburg Friday under orders of President Federico Laredo Bru.

Cuban authorities had held that the refugees did not have proper landing papers.

Today, there came an offer of haven from the Dominican Republic's government on condition that each refugee pay a $500 tax to reside permanently in the country.

It was understood that most of the refugees were penniless, and it was reported, although without confirmation, that no final answer was being given to his offer pending outcome of new negotiations with the Cuban government.

Meanwhile, another refugees vessel, the steamer Flandre, carrying 98 of 104 Jews who were denied permission to land in Cuba, sailed from Vera Cruz, Mexico, today. Six of those originally on board were allowed to disembark and the others understood that there might be a possibility of landing at some undetermined United States port.

Many Demand Moseley Face Court Martial

WASHINGTON, June 3.—(AP)—Demands are piling up at the war department that outspoken Major General George Van Horn Moseley face an army court martial on charges growing out of his campaign against "enemies from within."

Authoritative sources disclosed this today at the same time that the White House acknowledged a letter from Representative Coffee (D-Wash) suggesting the retired officer was guilty of "subversive statements" in his testimony before the house committee on un-American activities.

Th number and names of those, aside from Representative Coffee, who have suggested action were not disclosed, and war department officials indicated they would not be made public.

It appeared, too, that no action would be taken, at least for the time.

Marvin Buford Is Injured In Accident

Car Driven By Him Goes Off Highway Near Otterville

Marvin Buford, 1108½ South Ohio avenue, was seriously injured about 11:30 o'clock last night, when a car in which he was riding with Randolph Woolery, 320 West Fourth street, and a friend named Johnson, went off the slab a mile west of Otterville, struck a telephone pole and was wrecked.

Buford was brought to the hospital in Parker's ambulance, and it was not determined late last night just how dangerous his injuries might be.

According to Woolery the three men, all employes of the Montgomery Ward Company, were on their way to Otterville. Buford who was driving turned out to avoid a car, slipped off the slab, and the car struck a telephone pole, breaking it off.

Woolery has a bad gash on his head. Johnson was not injured.

Venue Change Granted On Jones Damage Suit

The $3,000 damage suit filed by Mrs. Ethel Jones against the city of Sedalia will be tried in the circuit court in Marshall, Saline county, on a change of venue granted today to the plaintiff by Judge Dimmitt Hoffman.

Mrs. Jones is asking damages from the city, alleging that she was injured in a fall when, she states, she stumbled over a water meter in the sidewalk at 814 West Fourth street. She asked for a change of venue because, she alleged, the inhabitants of this city were biased and prejudiced.

House Probe Of NLRB Said To Be Coming

If Representatives Aren't Allowed To Vote On Amendments

WASHINGTON, June 3—(AP)—President Roosevelt has been told by some of his closest congressional friends that unless congress gets a chance to vote on Wagner labor act amendments this session, a House investigation of the National Labor Relations board is inevitable.

This became known today as influential House members started a campaign to obtain support for an invesitgation resolution which Representative Cox (D-Ga.) has introduced.

Cox said he would ask the rules committee to approve his resolution unless the labor committee reports amendments "in time for action this session."

Most Want Probe

Some Democrats expressed the opinion privately the House would certainly adopt, if brought to the floor, a resolution to create a special committee to inquire into the board's activities during the summer and fall and report back January 1.

The inquiry would look into qualifications of the three board members and all regional directors and trial examiners and arguments that the law should be amended.

Rep. Anderson (D-Mo.), already has introduced legislation for such an investigation and informed persons said a similar one was being drafted by other legislators.

Wants Bossism Eradicated

HANNIBAL, Mo., June 3—(AP)—Gov. Lloyd C. Stark upon Missourians tonight to eradicate the last vestige of "Pendergastism" from the state.

"Missouri needed the federal government's help in bringing the Pendergast ring to justice," Stark said in a speech prepared for an American Legion rally here.

"But it is Missouri's job and Missouri's alone to rid its state and local governments of every trace of Boss Pendergast's political influence.

"I would remind you that eternal vigilance is the price of liberty. Our task is not complete when we have stamped out graft and political corruption. We must protect ourselves against its repitition with an aroused and vigilant civic conscience."

Garner To Seek Nomination Even If FDR Runs Again

By William B. Ardery

WASHINGTON, June 3—(AP)—Close friends of Vice President Garner disclosed today he has decided to seek the presidential nomination at the 1940 Democratic convention even if President Roosevelt should be a candidate.

Garner was said to be convinced his name should go before the convention, regardless of the strength of any opposing aspirants for the nomination, and that consequently he had approved efforts of supporters to line up convention delegates in his behalf.

Headed by E. B. Germany, Texas Democratic state chairman, a Garner-for president organization already has been formed and has mailed about 30,000 letters to Democratic voters urging support of Garner for the presidential nomination.

Urge Active Campaign

Some of the vice president's political advisers were said to be urging him to participate actively in state primaries and conventions which will choose convention delegates next year.

Informed persons told reporters that some of Garner's supporters believe he could make political capital by breaking his self-imposed rule of silence and speaking out on national issues during the next few months.

Figuring also in current political talk on capital hill are reports that some senators, lokoing forward to 1940, now are seeking actively to heal differences between Democratic factions.

Senate Love Feast

Wall-advised legislators said one harmony effort was a senate luncheon this week for Thomas G. Corcoran, New Deal adviser. Given by Senator Ashurst (D-Ariz), the luncheon was attended by such administration followers as Senators Barkley (D-Ky) and Schwellenbach (D-Wash) and such non-New Deal senators as Harrison (D-Miss) and Byrnes (D-SC).

Sharing attention with Democratic political developments, there was capital talk about Senator Vandenburg's (R-Mich) recent statement indicating his availability for the GOP presidential nomination.

Vandenburg said today he had received numerous letters from all section of the country saying his was a "good statement." Asserting he would have nothing more to say about the GOP nomination at present, he reiterated that he was primarily concerned with his duties as a senator and his projected race for reelection.

Arrange Hospitaliation For 29 Crippled Children

During the past six weeks, arrangements have been completed and carried out for the hospitalization or clinic treatment for twenty-nine Pettis county crippled children, according to the reports of Mrs. J. C. Connor, chairman of the Pettis County Crippled Society. Miss Nadyne Anderson, field nurse for the State Crippled Children's Service; and Miss Elizabeth Guy, Pettis County Health Nurse.

Four of these children ere sent to Mercy Hospital and the Pettis County Society assisted with the necessary transportation expenses.

The other twenty-five children were sent to the University Hospital at Columbia.

In order to take care of this large number of children, it has been necessary to make trips to Columbia every Wednesday since the clinic started. The representatives from the Helen G. Steele Music Club, and the Kiwanis, Lions, and Rotary Clubs have donated their time and cars for taking these children.

Plans For Older Children

In addition to the children under fifteen who are being treated plans are progressing for the care of children over fifteen through Miss Alberta Chase, of the Missouri Society for Crippled Children in St. Louis. In addition Miss Chase assists the Committee in planning its work.

Number Of Those Doomed To Be Executed Is Dwindling

OKLAHOMA CITY, June 3—(AP)—The ranks of the legion of the doomed—those men who crouch in the nation's death cells—are dwindling.

The noose, electric chair, gas and the firing squad have taken a heavy toll in the last four years, a survey showed today. Many of the executed were criminals, whose lurid careers were familiar to newspaper readers over the nation.

In 1935, there were 82 men in 25 states, who sat and waited the ominous tread of the executioner. Today in the same states there are 58.

This drop of nearly 30 per cent in more than half of the states of the Union, stems largely from heavy reduction in the execution lists of two, New Jersey and Oklahoma.

Jersey Less Strict

When "Jersey justice" sent Bruno Richard Hauptmann to the chair for the Lindbergh baby kidnaping, it was nearing the end of a period of extreme punishment. Since August 23, 1938, its death house has been empty—for the longest period in its 32-year history it has gone without a tenant.

In those 32 years, 126 men had trudged the last mile, an average of almost four a year.

And in the last four years, while the death row rate was declining, the number of prisoners serving life sentences increased from 155 to 199, leading some prison authorities to believe that in New Jersey, there is a trend to more moderate sentences.

Oklahoma seems to present the case of the law cleaning out a rat's nest. The state accounts for more than half of the decline in the death row population, for it now has but two condemned prisoners, where in 1935 it had 15.

FBI Cause of Drop

Some officers of Oklahoma attributed this drop to the relentless war of the federal bureau of investigation agents on bank bandits.

Bank banditry once was favorite felony of outlaws of the southwest. Gangs would roar into some hamlet, set up a machine gun to intimidate the citizenry and make off with the deposits of the corner bank.

Lawlessness begot lawlessness and the bank robber gangs spawned killers.

Then the G-men stepped in. The looting of a bank which was a member of the federal deposit insurance corporation was a signal to turn them loose on the desperadoes.

Guard Against The Whisperer

But the tongue can no man tame; it is an unruly evil, full of deadly poison.—James 3:8.

Like recurrent plagues, fantastic rumors are sweeping the country, much as whispering campaigns periodically afflict communities. Sometimes they are aimed at groups, sometimes at individuals.

From mouth to mouth pass these nasty little stories, growing in viciousness with each repetition. Sometimes they are the result of mere malice and misspent time and energy. Sometimes they are deliberately planted and spread by professional whisperers for a price or for some despicable end.

Ordinarily the professional rumor-monger is found out and loses caste before senatorial investigating committees; but the noxious local gossip is seldom held up to scorn. More often than not, the latter type is a welcome conversationalist at the aid society meeting, at the bridge party or in front porch neighborly visits.

The sad part of it all is that the local story-teller is seldom conscious of the deadly poison he or she spreads about, and would become indignant if challenged. And who has the courage to offer the reprimand and turn away.

The next time one hears a gossip's tongue unlimbered, wouldn't it be a proper time to ask him or her: "Is there any sense to the story?" "Does it sound reasonable and sane?" "Who says so?" "What motive might he have for saying so?" "Where did he get the facts?" "What actual ground is there for believing this?"

Those are the questions we ought all to ask ourselves whenever one of these "inside-stuff artists" begins to work on us. Don't be gullible.

Most of the petty rumors are simply propagated by a type of person who likes to hear the flapping of his mouth, and is entirely thoughtless of the misery and worry and grief that he or she may cause. Whether the stories are true or not, it is certainly the part of wisdom and tolerance to take all such gossip with a grain of salt when one hears them, and certainly not pass them on unless one has definite reason to believe them true.

Pythagoras, Greek philosopher, once said:

"A wound from a tongue is worse than a wound from a sword; for the latter affects only the body, the former the spirit."

Mexico, too, is going to have a world's fair in 1940. Still taking over United States oil.

Newest race idea is a contest between "walking fish." Suppose the winner gets thrown back in the lake.

If you see a lot of pale-faced young men these days, check it up to the month. This is the season when bridegrooms-to-be wonder what was wrong with them last winter.

Ice, the winter foe of airmen, occasionally brings down birds, also. From time to time, reports come in telling of the capture of eagles, whose wings have become useless because of moisture freezing on the feathers.

The public interest is not served by exposing to a congressional committee the private financial affairs of citizens who have no chance to resist by appeal to the courts.—Harry F. Ward, chairman, American Civil Liberties Union.

'Sure, I'll Run'

Some day some American statesman is going to be approached with the idea of running for presidency. And he will say, "Sure, I'll run!"

Just like that. And his questioner will fall in a dead faint, for a great American precedent will have been broken.

This is one question which has never been answered directly and simply except perhaps by Sherman, who left no doubt with his "I will not run if nominated and I will not serve if elected."

Coyness has become the tradition. Coolidge's "I do not choose to run" was the subject of reams of comment essaying to interpret exactly what he meant. Now Senator Vandenburg has added another expression which may go down beside that of Coolidge: "If there are responsibilities of a broader nature (than the senatorship) I shall meet them to the best of my ability," said he.

Neat, modest, and carrying the properly coy note for the tradition is this phrase of the Michigan senator. Translated, it means, "Sure, I'll run!"

Mexico's Million

The first million dollars Mexico agreed to pay to cover indemnification for certain properties seized from American citizens under the Mexican land laws, was paid promptly on the dot of the day it was due.

"It is a satisfaction," said Foreign Minister Hay in presenting the check to Ambassador Daniels, "for me to be an intermediary in an act in which Mexico complies with her obligation. Mexico once again proves that it always honors its word."

That is good, because what the world needs today is more people, and more countries which will honor their word. There are no doubt foreign bond-holders today who, reading the recent U. S. Supreme Court decision in regard to American railroad bonds they hold, and learning that they cannot collect what they believed they were promised—the gold equivalent in foreign currencies of the old gold dollar—will wonder just how carefully the United States itself is holding to its pledged word.

For a world in which so many people are throwing stones, there is certainly a great preponderance of glass houses.

• The Washington Merry-Go-Round

By Drew Pearson and Robert S. Allen

WASHINGTON—In those carefree, debonair days when he was merely the Prince of Wales, Edward of Windsor set what will probably remain the all-time record for Empire salesmanship.

He went everywhere, did everything. India, Australia, South Africa, His Majesty's Dominions Beyond the Seas, plus many other countries not His Majesty's Dominions toasted his arrival. Edward did a good job. But he took his work lightly, and the Empire took him lightly. Those were not the grim, harassed times of today.

Today it is a serious-minded young brother of Edward who is embarked on the first part of an Empire tour far more historic, far more necessary than any of the gay pilgrimages of the former Prince of Wales.

Probably the American public does not realize it, probably even the British public realizes it only vaguely, but today the British Empire has reached a crucial point in its history, and it is to woo the Dominians, far more than to woo the United States, that George VI is now embarked on the most difficult mission of his life.

Diagnosing Britain

Two things have happened to the British Empire, all of them contributing to the present history-making pilgrimage of the King and Queen:

1. The United Kingdom, once a reservoir of wealth and a source of strength to the Dominions, has lost much of that strength. She has less to offer the Dominions.

For years, the Dominions enjoyed the police protection of the British fleet, absolutely free. They contributed a mere handful of patrol boats or cruisers. The backbone of the fleet was paid out of over-taxed English pockets.

This remains true today, but how much longer it can remain true is doubtful. Today the United Kingdom, though not broke, is counting her shillings like a down-at-the-heel relative looking for a home with one of her children.

Today, British coal mines are deeper and more expensive; British textiles are losing out to the cheap labor of Italy and Japan; British steel is being undermined by steel mills which British capital has built in other countries. British unemployment is on the increase. British industry is kept going chiefly with rearmament orders, and the real fact is that the United Kingdom is living on her own capital—off her own fat.

In other words, the time has come when she will have to look more and more to her children, if the old Empire is to hang together.

Government By Bankers

2. The government of Great Britain today has become a government by a financial oligarchy, an oligarchy which has all but cut the Empire's throat.

The days of government by the Balfours and the fine old gentry are finished in England. Today it is the Bank of England, the Beaverbrook-Astor newspaper groups, the Chamberlains and the Birmingham group which rules England.

And their investments abroad frequently run counter to British foreign policy. That may explain, in part, appeasement. It also explains Dominion distrust of the mother country. Finally it explains the mounting unemployment in England.

British pounds invested abroad help put English workers on the dole.

For instance, Sir Auckland Geddes heads the Rio Tinto mines in Spain, threw powerful support to Franco in order to protect British investment, despite the fact that Franco's victory jeopardized the safety of Gibraltar and the guardian gate to the Mediterranean.

Britons In Italy

Again, the Italian rayon trust, Snia-Viscosa, which has helped to grow grass in the streets between Lancashire's once prosperous testile mills, is controlled largely by British capital, with three Britishers on the board of directors. One of them, John Hanbury Williams, is also a director of the Bank of England.

Vickers, the giant armament company, owns a big block of stock in Terai, the Italian metal works, operated by a relative of Mussolini's son-in-law; while Douglas Vickers is a director of Technomasio Italiano, electrical manufacturers.

British capital controls Sofina, the huge Italian electrical trust, with Sir George Grahame, Sir Pierce Lacy, and Reginald McKenna, former Chancellor of the Exchequer, on the board of directors.

Lord Swinton, a former member of the Chamberlain Cabinet, is a railroad and power magnate with subsidiaries in Germany and Italy; Lord Hailsham is a sugar baron, with insurance interests throughout the world.

Skeptical Dominions

This is the financial oligarchy which rules Britain today, an oligarchy which inspires no great degree of confidence in the British Dominions. In fact, soundings taken in the Dominions recently have shown a definite skepticism regarding Chamberlain policy.

So two things have happened to the far-flung dominions of the British Empire: 1, the mother country has become poorer, with less to give and more to ask; 2, simultaneously the Dominions themselves have become more suspicious of the mother country, suspicious of the motives prompting her present government, and suspicious that they, the Dominions, may become involved in a war not of their choosing and of no concern to them.

So when you read about the King of England and his long trek across the Canadian continent, you can appreciate that he is up against a tough job of his own choosing. For it is his job to weld together the British Empire at a time when England is on the downgrade economically, and when the different parts of the Empire are getting less and less compatible politically.

Commander David G. Farragut's old flagship, "The Hartford," built at Boston in 1858, which played such a prominent part in the attack on New Orleans, in which 18 enemy ships were captured and the Battle of Mobile bay in the Civil War, has been lying in Charleston, South Carolina, harbor rotting away. The Hartford was almost sunk in Mobile bay when the Lackawanna, of Farragut's fleet, was driving to attack the Confederate ram, Tennessee, and accidentlly struck the flagship, cutting her down within two feet of the water. Farragut, seeing the vessel would float, shouted "put on steam," determined to send her, crushed and broken as she was, full on the ram, but before this was accomplished the badly battered Tennessee, which had fought so gallantly, surrendered. President Franklin D. Rocsevelt has ordered the Hartford restored to condition, not because it so gloriously carried the Union colors in the unfortunate war between the states, but as a memento to the future generations of Americans of our constant naval supremacy.

At Council Grove, Kansas, stands a Santa Fe trail marker of unusual significance. "Here in 1825, agents of the American government met the Osage chiefs and made a treaty with them. Under it the Indians gave all Americans perpetual right to use the Old Trail across their lands." For this the Indians received $500 cash and $300 in goods.

In 1832 the hot springs and four sections of land surrounding them adjacent to Hot Springs, Arkansas, were by Act of Congress, set aside for future disposal of the United States, not to be entered, located or appropriated for any other purpose whatsoever, thus preserving the waters of the springs in perpetuity, free from monopoly and commercial exploitation. In 1921, by act of congress, the reservation was changed from the Hot Springs Reservation to the Hot Springs National Park.

The first commercial transaction made west of the Mississippi River tock place near St. Genevieve, Missouri, when Ferdinand De Soto sent runners from the Capaha Indian village below Cape Girardeau, in 1341 to buy salt from the Indians at the salt springs near the mouth of Saline Creek.

The tin-canning industry originated in Phillipsburg, New Jersey, out of an experiment by Harrison W. Crosby, an assistant steward at Lafayette College, in September, 1847. He experimented with stewed tomatoes, placing the fleshy parts in six little cans, the top of which he soldered with a slightly larger piece of tin, the hole through which he had poured the tomatoes. Several months later upon opening the cans they were in excellent condition. He then prepared to market the product but the public did not take to the idea. Finally he packed them in half dozen case lots and sent them to such prominent persons as Queen Victoria, President James K. Polk, newspaper editors and many others, with instantaneous results and thus a great industry was born.

● SERIAL STORY

DATE WITH DANGER

BY HELEN WORDEN

COPYRIGHT, 1939, NEA SERVICE, INC.

Yesterday: Clem Shirley falls for Duke Martin. Cleverly he invites Clem and Jack to see the town with him.

CHAPTER XIII

FOR the third time since he had begun to dress, Jack Burden lost his collar button.

This was typical of his day. Going to bed at four and getting up at nine didn't make sense, especially if you'd played camel the night before and thought Scotch was water.

Figuratively speaking, collar buttons had been rolling away from him ever since he'd struggled off to church that morning with his father and mother.

The Henry Burdens belonged to a conservative, old New York crowd which achieved simple lives in spite of great wealth. They still lived on Murray Hill and still attended the neighborhood Episcopal church where Jack was an usher. Mrs. Burden insisted that he go with her each Sunday. It was the one thing she asked of him. This morning she had knocked at his door at nine.

"Be ready at half-past ten, Sonny. Your father is coming with us today."

He dodged the scrutiny of her cool gray eyes by ducking into his bathroom.

"Glad to have come along, boy," his father had said as they climbed into the car. "What time did you get home last night?"

Jack grinned. "Morning, you mean. Four o'clock."

Mrs. Burden said nothing.

"Have you ever been to the Dove, Mother?"

Mr. Burden caught his son's glance and laughed. "Your mother doesn't even know what a night club is, Jack. She probably thinks the Dove is a place where bird fanciers meet."

The boy's handsome, sensitive face darkened. "Not a bad definition. That guy Martin is a bird connoisseur. He likes them young. He picks on the Janice Frenches."

"It was very sad about that poor child." Mrs. Burden spoke in uneasy tones. "I can't understand why she should want to kill herself. Her mother has served on a great many committees with me. Mrs. French has real executive ability."

"Nerve, I'd call it," Mr. Burden put in. "Let's talk about something more pleasant. What pretty girl did you squire last night, Jack?"

"Clem Shirley."

"Things are rather serious between you two, aren't they?"

"Yes, Dad. If Clem will have me, I'll marry her."

His mother rested her hand in his. "She's a charming girl, dear, I thoroughly approve. But why do you two have to go to those terrible clubs for amusement?"

JACK wondered how he'd got through the day. He'd skipped two aisles when he passed the plate, and he'd been out of step with the other ushers when he marched up to the altar. At luncheon he'd fallen asleep while a client of his father was discussing the legal point of a case and now he was reduced to chasing collar buttons! He wondered if Clem felt woozy. He'd call and find out. Maybe she didn't want to go to the concert this evening after all. But just as he reached for the receiver, the phone rang.

"Hello, yes, this is Jack Burden," he said as a husky voice inquired for him. "Who—Duke Martin?" His tone cooled slightly, then became a little incredulous. "Miss Shirley is at the Dove and wants me to join her there? I don't understand! Oh, you're going to show us the town tonight?" He paused. "Of course, I'll go any place Miss Shirley wants to, but why doesn't she ask me herself?" There was frank suspicion in his voice now. "All right, I'll hold the phone."—A long silence, then, "Is this you Clem, darling? What's the big idea? Certainly I'll come if you want me to."

It was already dark when Jack Burden sauntered into the Dove.

"What about a Scotch and soda?" he asked as he joined Clem and the Duke in the tap room. "I want to start this evening right."

Clem gave him a gay smile. "I'll have one with you. I've just been sipping a Vermouth."

"Make it three," the Duke called to the bartender. He pulled out a chair for Jack. "Glad you could come, Burden." Then turning to the bartender again, "Send Pasquale down. We'll order dinner here and have it served in my apartment."

"Your apartment?" questioned Clem.

"Yes, I keep one in this joint for the nights I don't feel like going back to the hotel."

"Janice French kept a separate apartment, didn't she?"

Clem's tones were casual. She was plainly making conversation. "I have one, too, but it's in my own house. Daddy gave it to me. Judging from Mary Franklin's story, Janice's father and mother didn't know about hers." She smiled brightly at Martin. "But you're really not concealing anything, are you?"

"How would I be concealing anything if I invited my friends to see it?"

HALF an hour later Clem and Jack were enjoying a special dinner in the quiet of Martin's quarters on the top floor of the Dove.

Jack was surprised to see how Martin lived. When Bill Condon, the valet, had ushered them into the room, he stared with frank amazement at its splendor. Martin, as much as he mistrusted him, appealed to his sense of adventure. The mysterious owner of the Dove represented something new. It flattered him to be introduced to a retreat of a man with a dark past who might be one of the old buccaneers reincarnated.

"Is there any more to this sybaritic luxury?" he inquired later, as they all sipped their after-dinner cordials in front of an open fire.

"You mean, have I any more rooms up here?" Martin reached for a cigar. "Yes. There is the game room where I sometimes invite the boys in for poker. My private gym where I come for a work-out after a hangover, and the glassed-in sleeping porch on the back. But I'll show you all that another night." He was looking, however, not at Jack, but at Clem, as he talked. "Now, I guess it's about time to get started." He glanced at his watch. "Half past ten. Where would you like to go first, Chin Lee's hop joint or May Day's new apartment?" He smiled. "That's in the neighborhood. She's just moved up to Park Avenue."

Clem stared at Jack. "I'd rather go to Chin Lee's. Somehow it doesn't sound quite so bad."

Jack grinned. The drinks and dinner had revived him. "You will go slumming, will you? Better be prepared for anything, even at Lee's. Come on, I'm ready."

It was after eleven when Martin's black car rolled up to the curb at the Bowery and Doyers Street. "We'll walk the rest of the way," he said as he and Jack helped Clem out. Then, turning to Condon, who was acting as chauffeur, "You wait here. If we're not back by twelve, start hunting for us."

Attention Duri ng May To The Tuberculosis Program

The nursing activities conducted by the County Health Nurse during the month of May were mostly aligned with the tuberculosis program.

Mrs. Blanche Crawford, field nurse of the State Tuberculosis Society has been in Pettis county for six weeks. Her first month was spent in the Sedalia schools, tuberculin testing the first and second grades and the senior students. X-ray examinations were made on all those having positive reactions to the tuberculin tests.

The last two weeks Mrs. Crawford visited in the county to all those who had positive tuberculin tests in 1936 and having X-ray interpretations of a primary tuberculosis infection. Not all the cases were visited because addresses were not available or had been changed. However an attemtp to locate as many as possible is being made. Any individual knowing that they had a positive tuberculin test and wishing to have another X-ray examination can come to the County Nurse's office in the court house on Saturday mornings and appointments for an X-ray will be arranged.

During six days of home visiting in the county a total of 315 miles were covered; 84 home visits were made and arrangements for 75 X-ray appointments to be taken by the County Tuberculosis association through Mr. Carroll at the Bothwell hospital.

Reports of the X-rays being taken at this time are being sent to the private physicians from Dr. Runde at Mount Vernon Sanitarium, who is interpreting these X-ray films. A request is mailed asking the patient to visit the private physician for the explanation of the X-ray.

Cases of Interest

Citing a few cases of interest resulting from the tuberculosis program:

Positive tuberculin tests on four little girls in first and second grade resulted in an X-ray examination of the father 29 years of age, which revealed a far advanced case of tuberculosis. Getting the father under sanitarium care and yearly check up on the children will be the responsibility of the nurses.

Another case revealed mother of five children, four in teen age group, had been discharged from Webb City Sanitarium four years ago, was found through follow up of X-rays in 1936 on a neighbors girl who imparted this information.

An X-ray seen on one of these teen age girls showed wide spread healed infection proving that the mother is infecting her children. None of this family had been previously visited by the nurse and the mother was not carrying out any hygienic precautions, although she occasionally had hemorrhages.

It would be easy to mention other such cases.

Unless continued supervision of these cases through a nursing service is available the tuberculosis situation in this county will certainly become progressively worse. It is hoped that a program of this type can be repeated every year instead of a spasmodic interest occurring at intervals. Concisely speaking, consistent supervision on this service is the only salvation in controlling the tuberculosis problem.

During the month eight new maternity cases were visited. Out of these eight only one has seen a physician. The reason given in each instance was lack of finances. Each realized the soundness of antepartum care but could not bring themselves to asking for free care from physicians.

Attendance at the syphillis clinic has been staying on an average of twenty-five to thirty visits per clinic. All of these patients have certainly assumed their responsibility of getting consistent treatment and apparently realize the necessity of it.

Any of the community clubs of PTA groups wishing to hold pre-school conferences during June and July and desiring the assistance of the County Nurse can be granted on request.

Hen-Loving Cat Is Cause Of Shooting

Woman Wounded By Shot Intended For Thieving Kitty

A maurading cat with a liking for chickens caused a lot of trouble on West Henry street Friday night, which culminated in the accidental shooting of Mrs. Mary Brown, negro, 400 West Henry.

Kit Manion, negro, who lives at 416 West Henry, heard the cat bothering the chickens in his back yard. Manion, who says he is 110 years old and was a slave during the Civil War, rushed into his house, grabbed a shotgun and fired at the trouble-causing cat as he was making off with one of his young fowls.

The cat escaped uninjured, but Mrs. Brown, who was hoeing her garden two lots away, was hit in the right arm, shoulder and scalp by the pellets. After being treated, she returned to her home not seriously injured.

Manion later said he was standing in front of his house when he heard his chickens "fussin." He blasted at the cat just as it reached the top of his backyard fence with the chicken in its mouth. Cat and chicken kept right on traveling.

Manion was placed in jail but was later released when Mrs. Brown refused to file charges, saying that "it was purely an accident," and that Manion did not intend to hit her. He said it was the first time he had ever been in jail.

Manion was bought as a slave by Johnny Manion, from whom he got his name, and given to Johnny's son, Powell, during the Civil War.

Coolness Captured in a Color

Goodall, famous makers of genuine Palm Beach, sifted all possible world sources for a shade that woud look as cool as Palm Beach felt. And finally they hit upon an utterly new and refreshingly different tint called Jute.

It was inspired by the inner bark of the Asiatic linden plant . . . . a cool, smooth shade that makes a perfect background for colorful Summer shirts and ties . . . . Mate the airy lightness of your Jute jacket or slacks with deeper Palm Beach colors and you've got a country outfit that's the last word in smartness.

Conquerors Of The American Continent

The tumultuous romance of Barbara Stanwyck, the daughter of the "U.P.'s" first engineer, and Joel McCrea, a hardy trouble-shooter, shares the interest with the building of America's first transcontinental railroad in "Union Pacific," Cecil B. De Mille's latest motion picture epic. Others prominent in the film, which will have its first local showing Tuesday for 3 days at the Liberty Theatre, are Akim Tamiroff, Lynne Overman and Robert Preston.

"Love Finds Andy Hardy," At Uptown Theater, Today, Monday and Tuesday

Andy Hardy makes love to Judy Garland, in the fourth of the Hardy Family series, "Love Finds Andy Hardy." While his own girl friend is away, Andy steps out with the rest of the girls, and Judy Garland, visiting next door to the Hardys, finds herself falling hard for the peppy son of Judge Hardy. "Love Finds Andy Hardy" is up to par with the rest of the Hardy Family pictures, and everyone will enjoy it from start to finish.

Second picture on the program is "His Exciting Night," with Charles Ruggles in the star part, supported by Ona Munson, "Slapsie" Maxie Rosenbloom, Stepin Fetchit and others. It's a story of batty blonds, punch drunk pugs, cuckco cabbies, ghosts, crack-ups, dizzy plane dives and all the whole exciting works that goes to make up "His Exciting Night." Charles Ruggles outdoes himself in this exciting picture.

Snow Leaves Hospital At Marshall

Not Seriously Hurt In Accident; No Inquest Necessary

Albert W. Durkee, 34 years old, a former Sedalian, but for several years residing in Kansas City, was fatally injured about 5 o'clock Friday afternoon in an automobile collision with a car driven by William "Billy" Snow, an automobile salesman, one mile west of Sweet Springs on Highway 40.

The condition of Snow was reported as being very satisfactory and he was dismissed from the Fitzgibbon hospital at Marshall, Saturday afternoon. He returned to his home in Sweet Springs.

The accident occurred on a straight part of the highway, near the Davis Creek bridge, the two automobiles crashing head on. Durkee was thrown from his car as it spun around and went over a twenty foot embankment, on one side of the highway. Snow's car went to the other side of the highway and down into a ditch.

Durkee was driving a 1939 Chevrolet coach while Snow was driving a 1928 Chevrolet coupe. Mr. Durkee was headed west on the highway enroute to his home in Kansas City while Snow who resides in Sweet Springs was headed east enroute to his home.

Died in Ambulance

Mr. Durkee was picked up in the Carter ambulance and started to the Fitzgibbon hospital at Marshall but passed away before reaching Marshall. He received severe head injuries, his skull being fractured in several places.

Mr. Snow received compound fractures of the left hand and arm, a skull concusion and apparently is suffering internal injuries. He was rushed to the hospital at Marshall in the Harvey ambulance.

Mr. Snow is well known in Sedalia, and has been employed by Ford motor car agencies in Sweet Springs and Odessa. He visited in this city numerous times.

Inquest Unnecessary

Dr. B. C. Bradshaw, Saline county coroner. was called to Marshall where he viewed the body of Mr. Durkee, after which he made a brief investigation and declared an inquest was not necessary. The body was returned to the Carter Funeral Parlor at Sweet Springs after which it was taken to the Newcomer Chapel in Kansas City.

According to friends of Mr. Durkee he had been working at Marshall and Sweet Springs most of the day calling upon clients of the company for which he worked.

Mr. Durkee resided at 3648 Jefferson street in Kansas City, and has been territorial manager of the G. M. A. C. for nine years, and prior to working for this corporation he was sales manager for the M. R. Smith Lumber company.

Here About Three Years

He resided in Kansas City a number of years, going there from Greeley, Colorado. He resided in Sedalia for about three years, living at the McQuiddy apartments on South Kentucky avenue and in the Dean Apartments. Mr. and Mrs. Durkee left Sedalia about three years ago and have since been residing in Kansas City.

He traveled the northwestern part of the state for the company.

Surviving him is his widow Mrs. Julia Durkee, a son Stephen A. Durkee, four years old, both of the family home, his mother, Mrs. Frances Durkee, of Los Angeles, Calif., two brothers, Roger Durkee of 524 West Thirty-ninth street, Kansas City, and Neil H. Durkee, of Alhambra, Calif.

Mr. Durkee was a member of the Episcopal church and while in Sedalia attended the Calvary Episcopal church.

He had many friends in Sedalia who were shocked upon learning of the tragedy. A number of Sedalians motored to Kansas City Saturday to be with Mrs. Durkee.

Proper Care Of Teeth Urged

Except for the common cold, dental caries or decayed teeth is the most prevalent of all diseases states a bulletin from the United States Public Health Service. It is found in a survey that nineteen out of twenty people at the age of fifteen have or have had them.

"More than half the children entering school next fall will have defective teeth judging from recent surveys.

Of the approximate 800 dental examinations done by local dentists at various county schools this past year, a total of over 500 needed dental corrections. Many of these corrections are very minor ones while others would mean the need of supervision of the dentist over some period of time.

The exceptionally low number of 40 corrections have been reported completed as the results of these examinations. Any corrections can be reported to your county nurse during the summer months.

"Every" child should be given the benefit of starting his school life in the best physical condition possible and parents are urged to have their children's teeth taken care of during the summer months before the rush of school activities begin."

One of the reasons so many children have defective teeth is because of the mistaken idea that first teeth are not important. First teeth are just as subject to decay and infection and may therefore cause illness as second teeth.

Science cannot yet answer the query, "Why do teeth decay and how can one prevent it?" By proper food to the expectant mother and tooth building foods to the infant and child and an early visit to the dentist seems about the best advice at the present. Parents should not wait for the second teeth before taking their child to the dentist. The first teeth are the pathfinders that guide the second teeth into place and should be retained in a healthy condition until nature intends they should be lost.

Do not wait for your child to have a toothache before visiting the dentist as most toothaches can be prevented if cavaties are repaired while they are still small.

Teeth should be kept clean by a vigorous brushing. A good dentifrice, either powder or paste, should be used. If neither is available a simple cleaning agent may be made by mixing one part of soda with three parts of fine salt. For children a few drops of their favorite flavoring may be added.

YOUR FORD V-8 HAS WHAT IT TAKES!
PROVED IN OPEN COMPETITION!

IT HAS THE SPEED

Through all the speed ranges from lowest to highest, the Ford V-8 gives you the economical, well-balanced performance of a soundly engineered car. You can see what it does on the roads you know. Now read what happened in the three great competitive tests of this year!

And remember that the things which made these Fords winners, all Fords have. The same fine materials, the same precision workmanship, the same economy!

IT HAS THE ENDURANCE

IT HAS THE ECONOMY

● FLORIDA—March—In the tough going of the Daytona Beach Race, over 150 miles of sand and road, a Ford-built Mercury 8 finished first with a Ford V-8 only 200 yards behind it. Ford-built V-8 cylinder cars made a clean sweep of all prizes. The average speed of the winning car was 70.30 miles per hour.

● BUENOS AIRES—April—The Argentines held a race that was a race—the South American Grand Prize. 4515 miles, much of it over steep and tortuous Andean mountain roads. 69 cars were entered, including all leading low-price American makes. The race was won by a Ford V-8 and 10 of the 28 cars which finished were Fords.

● CALIFORNIA—January—The annual Gilmore-Yosemite Economy Run was conducted under the worst conditions in years. 314 miles over two mountain ranges (4000 and 6000 feet elevation) with rain all the way and snow the last 40 miles! Nearly half the entries, including the leading low-price cars, failed to finish within the time limit. But performance figures recorded by Motor Age show that the 85-hp. Ford V-8 delivered the best gasoline mileage in its class! The Mercury 8 was also best in its class.

Cincinnati Reds Beaten by Boston Bees; Cardinals by Giants

League Leaders Lose Hard Game; Cards Lose a Close One

Bees Finally Turn On Redlegs; Cards Lose Another

BOSTON, June 3—(AP)—The seventh-place Boston Bees, beaten seven straight times by the Cincinnati Reds, turned the tables on the National League leaders today and whipped them, 4 to 3, but temporarily lost the services of pitcher Jim Turner.

The Bees' hurler took a hard line drive from Ival Goodman full in the face in the sixth inning, suffering a broken nose and a badly-gashed right cheek. Before he was taken to a hospital, a doctor called from the stands sewed five stitches in Turner's cheek.

Before being literally knocked out of the game, Turner did yeoman service on the mound and at bat, driving in Boston's first two runs. In the fourth, after Eddie Miller and Al Lopez singled, Turner doubled with two out and scored that pair.

NEW YORK, June 3—(AP)—Leathery old Tony Lazzeri hit a home run with one on to cap a four-run rally in the seventh today and give the New York Giants a 6 to 5 victory in the deciding game of their three-game series with the St. Louis Cardinals.

The Cardinals had taken a two-run lead in the first on three singles and regained it in the first of the seventh with three runs and a walk, an error and three singles after Hank Danning had knotted the score in the fifth on a homer with one on.

To Walter Brown and Curt Davis, both pitching in relief, went the victory and defeat, respectively.

Browns Drop Two Games To Phillies

Ninth Inning Rallies Send Philadelphia Soaring To Victory

ST. LOUIS, June 3—(AP)—The baffled St. Louis Browns are finding the lane longer and longer, with still no turn to victory.

They dropped their tenth and eleventh games in a row today, falling before the Philadelphia Athletics, 5 to 3 and 8 to 6, in a doubleheader. The twin victories put the A's in sixth place.

Philadelphia rallied in the ninth inning of both games. They were losing, 6 to 3, when they put on a five-run storm in the nightcap, the principal damage being done by Joe Gantenbein's homer and Sam Chapman's with two men on the bases.

In the first game, George McQuinn drove in all the Browns' runs with two homers, one of them with a man on. After scoring three times off George Gill in the early innings, the A's were dormant until the ninth, when two singles and a double produced the winning runs.

Sedalia baseball fans missed one of the finest exhibitions of a pitchers battle last Thursday night between Al Schrick of the Sedalia Merchants and Griffith of the Kansas City Firemen. The Merchants incidentally won the game 3 to 0.

Griffith turned fifteen strikeouts while Schrick sent fourteen batters via the strikeout route. Griffith allowed four hits, hile Schrick held the opponents to three bingo's. Griffith allowed three free trips to first while only two walks were made off of Schrick.

If all of the baseball games played are matched as closely, fans cannot expect any better baseball to be played. It was an exciting game to watch and is really appreciated by the paying customers.

An endeavor to give good baseball to Sedalia is being made by the players, but to date there is a great lack of support on the part of Sedalia itself in helping the team along.

Night baseball should attract a large number of sport fans, but last Thursday a great game went almost to waste. There were less than 200 fans in the stands, representing approximately $40, nearly $60 less than what the expenses amounted to. Such support will result in the "folding up" of the national pastime in Sedalia.

Pettis County Post Number 16, American Legion is sponsoring a movement which will be a benefit to baseball sport in Sedalia. The Legion has organized a Junior Legion Baseball club which is all set to start playing baseball. It is a program sponsored throughout the nation by a great many American Legion posts.

The rules of the Junior Legion baseball provide that the game belongs to the boys themselves. A coach or manager is allowed on the coaching lines, the players themselves must handle the team from the time it leaves the bench until it returns, and only the players can give instructions on the field.

A complete schedule is being arranged for the newly-formed league which consists of the following teams from the Legion posts at Columbia, Jefferson City, Keytesville and Sedalia.

The eighteen boys who are participating in the team are showing much interest and are keeping in practice, being regular, and trying to show Manager Fred Yeager they are what he expects.

M. U. Tigers To Play In East

Play Eighteen Games This Season; NYU At Madison Square

COLUMBIA, Mo., June 3—(AP)—The Missouri basketball team will pigeon-hole its affection for Big Six opponents to woo victory on an eastern campaign next winter.

Coach George Edwards, who fathered the Missouri cagers to a half interest in the conference title last year, announced today that he will take his boys to New York next December for a game with New York university in Madison Square Garden.

Following the clash in the Gotham athletic palace, the Tigers will return to Philadelphia for an encounter with St. Joseph's college in Convention hall.

Missouri has two other intersectional games carded and both will be played in the Tigers' back yard. Denver university will come here Dec. 18 and Greeley (Colo.) State Teachers college quint on January 5. The Tigers defeated both teams on a western excursion last December.

St. Louis university is the first number on the program next fall, furnishing the competition for the season opener in Brewer Field house December 16. The Tigers meet St. Louis again and Washington university twice.

Just what Coach Edwards will use for a team to play the 18-game schedule isn't known — not even to the basketball professor himself. Just one thing is certain — it will be a good team.

Harlan Keirsey, a gold-star forward and Hal Halstead, who played a lot of guard for Missouri will be lost to the 1940 team. Returning are Capt. John Lodsiger, all-conference guard, Bill Harvey, Blaine Currence, Haskell Tison, Arch Watson, Martin Nash and Clay Cooper. All are lettermen and none have positions, which presents the mystery.

Coach Edwards is going to do plenty of shifting because he has reserves like Ted Halter and Truman Jorgensen and freshmen of varsity caliber in the persons of George Evans of Quincy, Ill., and Keith Bangert of California, Mo., who may fit into the two vacancies on the starting five.

The 1939-40 schedule:

Dec. 16 — St. Louis university, here.
Dec. 18 — Denver university, here.
Dec. 21 — St. Louis university, here.
Dec. 22 — Washington university, there.

Junior Legion Team Ready

Sedalia Is A Member Of Newly Organized Junior League

The Pettis County Post No. 16, American Legion's Junior baseball team is to play its first league game next Sunday at Liberty park with the Keytesville Junior Legion team, an announcement was made Saturday by Rudolph Purvis, the chairman of the baseball committee.

Today the team will go to Algoa Farms where they will get a practice game with the team of that institution. Several members of the Legion plan on making the trip to Jefferson City to see this game.

Sedalia's team is one of the first to be organized under the sponsorship of the American Legion, an athletic program which is being carried out throughout the country. These young teams are attracting much attention throughout the state and several leagues have been organized.

These teams are being given the support and encouragement of the major baseball leagues as well as most of the minor leagues, as they will contribute much to the future baseball players of the country.

Players to be eligible to play must not be over seventeen years old, and who were born on or after June 1, 1922.

The league which has been organized consists of Columbia, Jefferson City, Keytesville and Sedalia. A home schedule of six games is being arranged by the State Junior Legion baseball commission. After the league schedule has been played the leading team will be automatically eligible to play in the district tournament to be held the latter part of July. The winning teams will advance to the state tournament, thence to the national tournament.

The American Legion has been fortunate in securing the services of Fred Yeager, a former pitcher with Columbus, an American Association club, who will manage and train the boys. For the past two weeks Manager Yeager has had the boys in regular practice and from observers who know their baseball and who have watched the practices, it is a well balanced club.

Sedalia team has some nice pitching material and some good fielders to give competition plenty of trouble.

The local committee is endeavoring to arrange for a night game to be played at the local park on Tuesday night, June 13. The Keytesville club will probably be Sedalia's opponents for that game.

Marshall To Play Sedalia Here Today

Sullivan Of Sedalia To Oppose Either Durham Or Bradford

The Sedalia Merchants will return home today to meet the Marshall Merchants on the Liberty Park diamond. A cancellation of a game at Lebanon gave the Merchants an opportunity to play here today.

Manager Siegel Saturday night elected Sullivan to take over the mound duties for this afternoon with Al Schrick being held in relief. However, Siegel holds much faith in Sullivan who has displayed some able pitching in his youthful career.

Holding to one pitcher all season is not well for the youngsters who desire to endeavor to advance in baseball. Giving them a chance will also let Sedalia fans know just what type of players we have here.

Walker, who presented a bad Sunday against the Firemen two weeks ago, is showing up far better. He appeared in the last two games a different, but much better player for the club. Walker made some nice plays against the Iberia team last week and against the K. C. Firemen Thursday redeeming himself before the paying customers.

The Marshall aggregation has been playing some nice ball this year and should give the local team some competition interesting to the customers.

Summer Activities At Smith-Cotton Hi.

Much interest is being shown in the school playground project being held at the Smith-Cotton high school sponsored by the Board of Education with Forrest Drake in charge.

A softball league has been organized and to date the teams are putting up plenty of fight for the championship. Whittier's team seems to be the power house with four games won, no losses.

Sacred Heart has two teams entered in the league, identified as Number 1 and Number 2.

The standings at present are:

	W.	L.	Pct.
Whittier	4	0	1.000
Sacred Heart 1	2	1	.666
Broadway	3	2	.600
Jefferson	1	2	.333
Washington	1	2	.333
Mark Twain	0	2	.000
Sacred Heart 2	0	2	.000

A hard-ball league is expected to be organized as soon as enough teams have been formed. At present some "sand lot" baseball is being played each afternoon.

Ping pong and dart baseball is being played during the program. Those games are being played in the high school auditorium.

Blues To Play Doubler Today

The Sedalia Blues will play a doubleheader this afternoon with the opposition clubs being from Beaman and Spring Fork. The first game will be with the Beaman aggregation and Spring Fork the second.

Beaman and the Blues have already split two games with Beaman taking the first game and Sedalia the second. The first game will start at 1 o'clock.

Spring Fork and the Blues will start the second game about 2:30 o'clock. Batteries for the games will not be announced until game time.

The marriage will take place at the Little Church of the Flower, Glendale, Calif., September 2.

Announcement of the engagement was made known to the guests on tiny scrolls of paper, held in the mouth of individual blue birds that decorated the cakes.

Guests were seated at individual tables for a 7:30 o'clock dessert supper. Rose bouquets were at each table, and the home was decorated throughout with vases and bowls of roses.

At the close of the supper, bridge tallies, in the rose motif, were distributed, and each tally carried instructions for the guests to assemble in the hall around the long walnut stairway. Miss Elynn Beach, accompanied at the piano by her mother, sang "I Love You Truly," then Mrs. Beach played the wedding march as little Margaret Handley, five-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Patrick Handley, descended the stairs with a large bouquet of American Beauty roses which she presented to the bride-to-be.

The refreshments were strawberry ice cream soda, nut bread sandwiches and cookies. The booklets were tied to the soda straws.

During the evening the guests had a lot of fun composing a love story, written and illustrated by words and pictures cut from magazines and newspapers. Farmers Trying To Take Gas Without Paying Is Killed heart. The two men scuffled for a few moments before Hedger suddenly dropped.

According to Mrs. Hedger, she and her husband were returning from Grand Forks, N. D., where he had gone to look for a job on a cousin's farm. She is 18 years old and they had been married only three weeks and four days.

Without More Money

She said that they had stopped at a filling station about 20 miles further north on the highway and had bought one gallon of gas for their 1934 Plymouth sedan, using all the money they had left.

"Donald had run out of money," she said. "He said he was going to try to cash a check at the next station and I told him not to. I said I'd rather walk than do that.

"But he just looked at me and drove on," Mrs. Hedger added. When they got to the station, she said, she was almost asleep, as they had been driving all the preceding day and night, and she did not remember much of what happend.

Norton said he became suspicious of Hedger after he had given him the gasoline and oil, when he was asked to check the tires. He thought Hedger might attempt to drive away without paying.

Demands His Money

Norton refused to do so, saying, "You can test the tire yourself. But before you drive away I want you to pay me."

Hedger replied that he wanted to give a check for the money he owed. When Norton refused to take it, Hedger said "That's too bad."

About this time, Norton said, he noticed Hedger was holding something behind him. He reached in his pocket for a .25 Colt automatic he was carrying, just as Hedger slugged him with the wrench, gashing his left arm and eye.

The gun was about half way out of Norton's pocket when he was hit and the blow knocked it from his hand. He picked it up and shot Hedger near the heart. The two men scuffled for a few more moments before the young farmer dropped.

Norton said he didn't know Hedger was dead then, and went over to his car to tell his wife she'd better come and look after her husband.

Mrs. Hedger said yesterday that her husband's father, Rueben, would arrive in Warsaw sometime today. She plans to return to Harrison and stay there. She said that when they were married her husband was helping his father around a garage at their home, but that he thought he could get a job in Grand Forks and had gone there.

He had been a farmer all his life, Mrs. Hedger said.

Number Of Those Doomed To Be Executed Is Dwindling

Charles "Pretty Boy" Floyd, possibly one of the most proficient machine-gunners ever at large outside a battle ground, died in a farmer's field, victim of the G-men's guns. Earlier, Clyde Barrows, the southwest killer, and his "moll," Bonnie Parker, kept a fatal rendezvous with the law. These and other blows at banditry, southwest officers credit with a salutary effect on would-be killers. They realized the law could shoot for keeps, too.

Arrange Hospitilization For 29 Crippled Children

help to the crippled in Pettis County is the Vocational Training program which Paul Kinder, assistant director of the Vocational Rehabilitation Department at Jefferson City, is planning. Not every young adult who is physically handicapped is eligible for this service but he is attempting to assist all of those who can profit from training and become economically self dependent as a result.

Mr. Kinder will be in Pettis County for several days in June, testing and conferring with those cases from Pettis County which might be considered eligible.

Recreational Needs

Physical treatment and Vocational Training are not the only needs of the crippled. It is probable that the Girl Scouts in Sedalia will consider the project of supplying the recreational needs for a child in Sedalia who is unable to sit up or walk. This child is is under treatment and has had considerable hospital care but it is necessary for her to remain in bed for several months at home.

The project which the girl scouts are contemplating is going to bring much pleasure to this child, who is unable to run and play but who looks forward to the time after her treatment has been completed when she can do so.

Car Catches Fire In Front Of Theatre

A short circuit in the wiring caused the blaze which was extinguished by disconnecting the battery.

TOOK ASPIRINS BY HUNDREDS SEEKING RELIEF FROM MISERY

Found Complete Satisfaction In Results Of KruGon; "My Entire Family Take KruGon When In Need of a Laxative Or Feeling Draggy and Tired" Declares Mrs. Cornine

It is no mere accident that KruGon so often brings relief to ailing people who before had tried so many other medicines without any real benefit. This medical compound eliminates the intestinal impurities and brings results in the most agonizing cases of muscular aches and pains, poor digestion, gas and bloating, backaches, night risings, nervousness, dizzy spells and headaches caused from faulty elimination.

For instance, read what Mrs. Orville Cornine, a highly respected lady who lives on Rural Route No. 2. Nelson, Missouri (near Sedalia). said recently in a statement of praise reaching the McFarland and Robinson Drug Company, 104 W. Main St., this city:

"I would not be without KruGon at any price," said Mrs. Cornine, "and thank the neighbor who told me about it. I was so sore from head to foot that my flesh was sore to touch. I felt so badly I could not continue my regular housework and when I was able to be up and on my feet at all I just dragged myself about. Sluggish bowel action made me feel miserable. I was so discouraged with my condition as regardless of the various tonics and remedies that I took I did not get satisfactory results. When my neighbor told me about KruGon I was somewhat skeptical of its merits but gave it a trial and was soon on the road to recovery."

"Thanks to KruGon," continued Mrs. Cornine, "I am now able to do my housework with all the aches and pains gone from my body. Why I had actually taken aspirin tablets by the hundreds in trying to get relief which of course was not eliminating the source of my trouble but only easing the pain. The neighbor who told me of KruGon was a 'Good Samaritan' indeed. I am now getting proper elimination and feel the best I have in years. My whole family take KruGon when in need of a laxative or a general tonic. I cannot begin to express how thankful I am that I decided to give this wonderful laxative-tonic, KruGon, the opportunity to change my years of suffering into good and glorious health."

KruGon is sold by the McFarland and Robinson Drug Company, 104 West Main St., this city. and by the leading druggists in surrounding towns.

You Actually Have Fewer Bones As You Mature, but How Many?

By DR. MORRIS FISHBEIN
Editor, Journal of the American Medical Association, and of Hygeia, the Health Magazine

The quiz for this week deals with the structure of the human body. Again there are five questions to which 20 points each may be assigned. If you are well informed, you will have at least a score of 60.

1. The skin of the human body weighs, for a man of 150 pounds, a total of (a), 10 pounds; (b), 20 pounds; (c), 8 pounds; (d), 6 pounds, or (e), 25 pounds.

2. There are in the body of a man 40 years old the following number of bones: (a), 100; (b), 150; (c), 175; (d), 206; (e), 270.

3. The heart of the average man is as big as (a), grapefruit; (b), an English walnut; (c), a football; (d), an apple; (e), his head.

4. The kidneys are in the (a), stomach; (b), chest; (c), abdomen; (d), back; (e), buttocks.

5. The thymus is a (a), geographical structure; (b), a musical instrument; (c), a gland concerned with growth; (d), a game; (e), an article of wearing apparel.

ANSWERS:

The skin of a human being makes a surface 20 feet square and weights about six pounds.

2. A man, 40 years old, has 206 bones in his body—26 in the spine, 23 in the skull, 25 in ribs and breastbone, 64 in the arms, 62 in the legs, and six in the ears. A baby at birth has 270 bones. As it grows these combine to make eventually a total of 206.

3. The average man's heart is five inches long, three and one-half inches wide and two and one-half inches thick. It weighs 11 ounces. It is thus about the size of the average man's fist.

4. The kidneys are located in the abdomen. There are two. They lie one on each side of the spine toward the back.

5. The thymus is a gland which is present in young children and disappears as they grow older. It is believed to be concerned with growth.

Growing Girls Often Act Without Rhyme Or Reason

By Olive Roberts Barton

Betty took forty grains of headache pills and went to school. Then she became ill, walked up and told the teacher. The teacher gave her something at once and called the doctor.

The child herself called her father on the telephone and told him the whole story. He said, "Well, Betts I was all sorts of a darn fool when I was your age, but I never went completely nuts. You aren't the only one concerned in this. You have no business scaring your teacher into fits and worrying me. I can't tell your mother. It wasn't your life you were fooling with, but hers. How do you like that?"

Why did Betty do such a thing? She is not an "exceptional" child or in any ways a deviate. She is a completely normal, tom-boy type with all the natural attributes of any girl of twelve.

She may have known that the medicine would help her when she was ill. Then she may have decided that ten times as much as usual would make her feel very fine. That is one explanation.

Or she may have had some problem she could not face. She did not think of death but perhaps she thought she could go to sleep and forget everything, just as she did when she had grippe and the medicine had had such a salubrious effect.

May Have Been No Reason At All

It may have been that her father was going away on a business trip next day and she thought she could keep him home. Or that she was lonely and wanted to be fussed over.

The family won't mention it again. They are too wise for that. She is as sorry as anyone that she was so foolish. She gave no explanation. Maybe she hadn't any. I think that a growing girl does many things impulsively that she can't explain.

• Stamp News

SPECIAL arrangements to allow school children to obtain first-day covers of the U. S. three-cent Baseball Centennial stamp for the cost of the stamp have been announced by Postmaster General James A. Farley.

Postmasters have been instructed to accept single addressed envelopes and three cents in cash from children of school age, and to forward all covers, with postmaster's check for postage, to Cooperstown, N. Y. Baseball Centennial stamps will be affixed there, canceled with the June 12, 1939, date, representing first-day sales, and covers returned to the senders by regular mail.

Iceland commemorates the New York World's Fair with an issue of three values. The rose red 20a, showing the Trylon and Perisphere, is reproduced above.

Although the inauguration of trans-Atlantic airmail service completes the round-the-world chain of airmail routes, a provision of the international postal agreement prevents dispatch of covers on a globe-circling flight. Covers divided to secure successive addresses are not admitted to the mails.

An arrangement with Great Britain, with the approval of other countries which signed the original agreement, may make round-the-world covers possible.

Interesting new issues: Italian overprints, upon the annexation of Albania, 11 values; Soviet World's Fair commemoratives, two values; Bulgaria, 50th anniversary of Bulgarian railways, four values.

Little Change In Wheat Market

CHICAGO, June 3—(AP)—After fluctuating nervously through one of the dullest sessions since the bull market based on crop scare began six weeks ago, wheat prices today closed unchanged to ½ cent lower compared with the previous finish.

Quotations dipped ½ cent at the opening to around 77 cents a bushel for summer delivery contracts, lowest in more than a week, but then developed recovery power that rallied the market at times as much as ¾ cent, at the close July wheat was quoted at 77⅜-½ and September at 77⅛-77.

Weather continued to dominate trade, with good rains improving recent more favorable conditions for crop development, but fair and warmer weather was in prospect for much of the grain belt.

Selling was encouraged by weather and belief expressed in some quarters that recent improved wheat conditions may be reflected to a greater extent in the official government crop report to be issued next Friday than in yesterday's private estimates which suggested a probable U. S. harvest of 700,000,000 bushels. Much data or the private reports was obtained prior to the favorable change in crop prospects.

Corn quotations closed at the day's lows.

Crop reports indicated recent rains have improved oats and rye conditions in some districts.

Firmness in cottonseed oil steadied the lard market.

In the Celebes there are cattle which grow no larger than domestic calves.

Stock Market Ends Week On Way Up

NEW YORK, June 3—(AP)—The stock market today ended a rather spotty week on a moderately cheerful note.

While price changes were small throughout the brief session, steels, motors, mail orders, rubbers and specialties generally pointed upward. Many issues, however, closed virtually even or a shade in arrears.

With numerous traders deserting boardrooms for week-end holidays, the day's turnover was the smallest since May 13. Transfers totalled 175,740 shares against 382,360 last Saturday. The week's volume, due partly to the Memorial Day shut-down, was the lowest in about a year.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks was up .1 of a point at 47.3, but on the week showed a net decline of .2.

The day's news budget was lacking in particularly stimulating qualities from either home or abroad.

Steels drew some support on announcement of the navy's big warship orders and indications next week's mill operating rate would register a further come-back. Motors, while continuing under the cloud of Detroit labor difficulties, edged upward as forecasts of better than anticipated second quarter earnings for the principal manufacturers were heard.

Amsterdam joined other European markets today in Saturday closings and from now on will shut down over week-ends through August. Consequently, clues from overseas price trends were lacking as a New York influence.

Bonds were about steady and commodities slightly mixed. Wheat at Chicago was unchanged to off ½ cent a bushel and corn down ¼ to ½. Cotton advanced 0 to 50 cents a bale.

Anti-Hopper Faction Not Worried, Yet

Not Time To Get Alarmed Now; But 'Watchful Waiting'

COLUMBIA, Mo., June 3.—(AP) The anti-grasshopper faction at the Missouri College of Agriculture has established the policy of "watchful waiting."

"No one is asleep on this grasshopper problem," said George Jones, entomology expert, "but it isn't time to get alarmed."

Nevertheless, steps have been taken to control a possible infestation of hoppers. Grundy county, which used 350 tons of bait last year, and several other counties already have openeed baiting stations, where farmers may secure bran poison material.

Poison Cost Not High

Cost of the poison is reasonable, running about 15 to 20 cents for three applications per acre. The bran is harmless—except to hoppers—and will not even give poultry or quail a good "tummy ache" if spread properly on the field, Jones said.

The cool wet weather during the past two weeks has greatly reduced the threat of hopper damage. Eight inches of rain within two weeks in Greene county and vicinity has eliminated that area from serious threat.

However, temperatures have been favorable to grasshoppers in some of the northern Missouri counties, where a federal survey last fall indicated heaviest concentration of eggs.

Areas With Hoppers

Jones indicated the areas where hoppers should be worst as Atchison, Holt, Buchanan and Andrew counties. However, few eggs are reported in these places and the hoppers apparently left last year.

Other counties haven't been so fortunate. Portions of Harrison, Davies, Grundy, Livingston and adjacent counties have the greatest number of eggs. Young hoppers are already reported feeding in these areas.

Certain areas in Camden, Laclede, Pulaski, and adjoining counties also have a good hatch, and Mississippi and other southeast Missouri counties have indications of eggs, Jones said.

The May rains have been helpful in reducing numbers of hoppers where they had hatched and also by spading roadside vegetation which the hoppers often eat before moving into the corn.

Eat Roadside Weeds

"They eat horseweed and other roadside weeds in which, if there is plenty, they will stay before moving into the crops," Jones said.

"While there are not as many eggs in the soil in infested areas as a year ago, potentially there are enough hoppers, conditions favorable, to cause much damage."

Favorable conditions mean continuous dry, hot weather. The machinery is set to handle such conditions and keep the insect under control.

Jones heads a state committee first organized in 1936 and reorganized by gubernatorial action in 1938, which is keeping in touch with county agents on the grasshopper damage. The state control machinery includes a county committee made up of one man from each township and, if counties have serious infestations, will find immediate organization of hopper fighters by school districts.

Chinch Bugs Active

College of Agriculture entomologists also report that chinch bugs are causing damage in some areas in the state. Counties in the north half of the state and down into the west central section have some chinch bugs.

Already in a few places they are moving from the ripening small grains into the young corn. Chinch bugs are easy on small grain, but when it drys, they get hungry and head for the corn.

At this time, in a unique system of trench warfare, they can be controlled. The battle goes like this:

Battle Technique

Plow a furrow between the cornfield and the small grain (usually wheat or barley) field. Spread gas tar oil along the top of the trench nearest the corn and dig post holes every so often in the bottom of the trench. When the chinch bugs move they will first drop into the trench, climb to the tar, turn back into the furrow, follow the bottom of the furrow to the holes and be trapped.

If the gas tar oil is too hard to get or too expensive, there is a more simple process. It consists of merely plowing the furrow, then get a boy to ride a horse dragging a log down the bottom of the furrow. This smashes or mixes up the chinch bugs and, if continued for the four or five days of their march, keeps them from destroying corn.

Former Sedalia Mother Gives An Interview On Child Training

The following article, which appeared in a Little Rock, Ark., paper, will be interesting to Sedalians because Mrs. Soderstraum was formerly Miss Juanita Bridges, of Sedalia, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. B. A. Bridges:

If you stroll through City Park on a sunny afternoon you will meet a fair-haired mother leading a dainty, little girl with blue eyes. At their heels frolics a Boston Bull pup. As he dashes ahead to bark at a squirrel scampering up a tree, the child yells, "Lady, come back!"

This is Mrs. James Soderstraum and daughter, Sylvia. They live in the neighborhood, upstairs at 714 East Seventh street. The husband is a young doctor who recently entered training school at Fort Roots hospital. The family came here from Denver, Colo., where the doctor had been stationed for over two years as reserve officer at the Fitzsimmons Army hospital.

Soderstraum is from a family of doctors. His grandfather, uncle and brother were in the medical profession before him. He was born in Iowa and graduated from Nebraska Medical school.

Six years ago while doing interns work in a Kansas City hospital, Soderstraum met a young nurse whom he decided he wanted as confidante for life. She was from Sedalia, Mo., and had come to Kansas City to attend Junior college and take a course in nursing. She specialized in child training and was a nurse for two years.

Two years ago their baby was born in Fitzsimmons hospital. Now Mrs. Soderstraum has a chance to use the child training in which she specialized.

"It's much easier to train other people's children than one's own," she says. A parent, especially a mother, is endowed with the ability of looking at a child's behavior from the child's viewpoint and she often lets love outbalance duty; even reasoning, and the child gets its way.

"Child Village," a nursery school in Denver, is the most efficient school for training the prekindergarten age that Mrs. Soderstraum has ever seen and she has traveled extensively. The building is ultra-modernistic in design, resembling one of the World's Fair structures. In Child Village the baby is taught the art of living happily with other children, by developing perfect poise, co-ordination of motor muscles and child etiquette. The teachers have majored in child psychology at college and know exactly the proper thing to do when little Bobby bites tiny Mary's cheek and Mary retaliates by pulling Bobby's hair. Registered nurses make a periodic examination of each child's health and keep in touch with parent's economic status.

Mrs. Sodrestraum thinks nursery schools are the biggest blessing a working mother could wish for.

This couple likes to travel. They have lived in four states, Iowa, Missouri, Colorado and Arkansas and hope to be stationed in Little Rock for the next few years. On trips throughout the country they always visit historical places on the way and take pictures to put in their travelogue. Another scrapbook is bulging with dozens of poses of little Sylvia.

The Soderstraums attend First Presbyterian church and think the Rev. Mr. Adams an unusally interesting pastor.

McLaughlin Will Inspect New Trends

Is Going To Summer National Home Furnishings Show

Off to the market to see the latest trends in home furnishings, Phillip McLaughlin of McLaughlin Furniture Store, has left to attend the summer national home furnishings show which is being held at the American Furniture Mart in Chicago, June 5 to 17.

There they will inspect thousands of pieces of new home furnishings shown by more than 850 manufacturers and select new furniture to be featured here during the coming season. The Chicago show is a semi-annual event attended by more than 10,000 furniture merchants from every state in the Union.

Homes More Attractive

"We feel it is our responsibility to keep a close check on latest style developments and price trends so that we may offer the people of Sedalia the best values in newest furnishings for the home," said Mr. McLaughlin. "Fashions in home furnishings change just as fashions in clothes, and today the housekeeper wants her home dressed as smartly as herself, for she knows her home reflects her good taste and expert judgment in keeping abreast of the times."

Commenting that homes are much more attractive and furniture more practical today than several years ago, Mr. McLaughlin remarked that women have at last learned to let sunshine into the rooms, have found what touches of color will do and know that even a single piece of furniture, a lamp or a new pair of drapes will completely change the appearance of any room.

Describes "Swedish Modern"

Answering some of the questions which have recently been asked about "Swedish Modern," Mr. McLaughlin explained that the graceful new style is a fine contribution to furniture design. Describing it as graceful, livable, practical and understandable, and being a combination of the best features of 18th Century styling combined with 20th Century simplicity, he sounded a reassuring note in the statement that according to many authorities the style is expected to remain as a permanent period of furniture design. It was cited, however, that it is entriely possible that the name might be changed to that of American or Contemporary Modern since the so called "Swedish Modern" is the work of American designers" and there is strong feeling among the members of the American Designers' Institute, whose national headquarters are at the American Furniture Mart and who design 90 per cent of the furnishings that go into the home today, that the name should be changed to denote its correct origin.

Sedan Collides With Gasoline Truck

A 1939 Chevrolet Sedan belonging to Dr. L. S. Geiger and driven by his stepson, Lewis Whitebeck, ran into the back of a Milton gasoline truck Friday afternoon, near the corner of Main street and Grand avenue.

Robert Reed, 1015 East Eleventh, driver of the truck was pulling into the curb because he heard the siren of an ambulance when the car hit his truck.

All School Band To Give Concert

The Sedalia all-school summer band will present its first popular band concert Thursday night, June 8 at 8 o'clock in the band shell at Liberty park. This band is made up of about sixty students from all the Sedalia schools who have been playing for more than one year.

The program will consist of marches, novelty numbers, foxtrots and overtures. The complete program will be announced at a later date.

The band is under the direction of J. T. Alexander, director of music in the Sedalia public schools and Miss Geraldine Teuful, director of music at Horace Mann school.

Meet At Park By 4-H Tree Club

Six of the members of the Liberty School 4-H Tree Club with their leader, Miss Mamie McCormick, met at Liberty Park on Thursday for their last club meeting of the year.

During the day different members of the group played croquet, made leaf prints and worked on tree identification using the summer key in the Farm Forestry state bulletin. At the noon hour a picnic lunch was enjoyed.

Misses Helen Harms and Helen Rogers ranked highest of the club members present in total points for the project. Miss Anna Belle Bennett is president of the group.

Other members attending were: Misses Eloise Bellah, Ruth Bennett and Lola Rogers.

Men Struck By Lightning Are Out Of Danger

Five Of The Seven Injured At Hospital

Five of the seven WPA workers who were injured Friday afternoon when lightning struck a rock crusher under which they were standing at a rock quarry on the Ralph Dow farm, north of Georgetown, are still at the Bothwell hospital.

Joe Gehlken, 49, and Lee Murray, 51, the two most seriously injured, were much better Saturday, and both believed to be out of danger.

Three others in the hospital, Roy Hall, 30, Willis Buckley and Joe Summers, complain of being very sore, and will probably remain in the hospital for a few days.

Gehlken resides at 131 East Saline, Murray at 540 East Third street, Hall at 424 East Sixteenth, Buckley at 1101½ East Fifth street and Summers, 1616 South Brown.

J. E. Scott, 1002 South Monroe and Clark White, 501 East Walnut, who were also at the quarry and shocked, returned to their homes Friday evening after receiving emergency treatment at the hospital.

The men were working near the crusher when the storm came up, heavy rain accompanied by lightning. They sought shelter beneath a small platform. Suddenly there was a crash and the men fell to the ground. It is believed the bolt struck the crusher on the conveyor and followed the tin work and a boiler plate down the machine, Gehlken was leaning against part of the boiler plate, therefore receiving the greatest shock.

Other workmen nearby heard their screams and going to their assistance found Gehlken unconscious, a hole torn in the top of his hat, and for a time they believed he had been killed.

Murray was in a semi-conscious condition, with Hall lying across him. Scott and White were thrown nearly fifteen feet and were stunned for several minutes.

Harry Colvin Injured By Bull

Harry Colvin, 47, dairy operator on the Ed Ilgenfritz farm one mile north of here, had his arm broken and was severely bruised early yesterday morning when he was knocked down and gored by a Guernsey bull in back of his barn.

The three-year-old, 1,600 pound bull knocked Colvin down twice before he finally escaped through the barn door. He said last night that he had raised the bull and that it had never been mean before. The animal was loose in an enclosure back of the barn at the time, Colvin said, but he had never thought it necessary to confine it more closely.

After being treated at the hospital this morning, Colvin returned to his home. He thinks he may sell the bull now, he said, though he has turned down previous offers for it.
